Graduation Day
Organizations
Hofstra's Student Organizations

Introduction by Dean Barbara T. Pace

To the Class of 2001:

It's a pleasure to have my message placed in the student organization section of the Pocket Part.
I think of student organizations as the 'plus' that holds the student body together. They provide opportunities to get together to socialize and have fun. They provide opportunities for service to the greater community as well as to the Law School. They offer programs that appeal to various professional interests and educate.

We are proud of the many Hofstra clubs, organizations and journals and of their members.

This year was especially active with events sponsored by Phi Alpha Delta, the SBA, Hofstra Law Women, LALSA, RJF, BLSA, APALSA, Hofstra Law School Democrats, Environmental Law Society, International Law Society, and Corporate Law Society. They included attorney guest speakers on various topics including character and fitness, labor arbitration, domestic violence, among others.

UAC continued to offer representation to a large number of clients seeking unemployment benefits. Two successful blood drives were held and several food fairs were enjoyed by the entire Law School community. And there were some fun parties which did not lack for attendance.

Just as you have been involved in student organizations, we encourage you to stay involved in the life of the Law School by becoming active in Hofstra Law School's alumni association after your graduation. You will find it both professionally and personally rewarding.

I want to wish the entire Class of 2001 the best of luck and success in all your endeavors. And please remember to keep in touch with your classmates and the Law School.

Sincerely,

Barbara T. Pasa
Senior Assistant Dean
for Students

Millennium Edition 99
Asian-Pacific American Law Students

Black Law Students Association
The Conscience

Jewish Law Students Association
Low Review

Moot Court Association
Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity

Student Bar Association
Labor Law Having Fun
Environmental Law Society Cleans the Beach for Earth Day 2001
Phi Alpha Delta Knows How to Celebrate a Great Year