PREFACE

This is the second issue of Volume XI of the Journal of International Business and Law (JIBL), a joint publication by the students of the Law School and the Zarb School of Business of Hofstra University. As stated in the first issue of this volume, the journal has assembled a prestigious group of business faculty to serve on our editorial board. These board members will provide peer reviews of the manuscripts submitted to the new business section of the journal. This new section, which we plan to launch during the 2013-2014 academic year, will publish empirical and theoretical research in international business and related fields. The law section of JIBL will continue to publish student notes and articles by faculty and practitioners about legal issues. As in the first 10 issues, our student editors will review submissions to this section. The publication of multiple issues each year as well as the planned peer-reviewed section will not change the focus of JIBL, which will remain an interdisciplinary journal focused on international business and law. Also, as always, the journal will publish articles by students, faculty, and practitioners.

The second issue of the XIth volume contains a total of 9 rticles and notes. These articles and notes deal with such varied topics as regulations in the financial sector, the impact on local government of expatriates' use of social media, a cross-cultural comparison of European and American managers' decision-making, and the application of the internet in various business situations, especially in the global environment.

Please submit your manuscript to:

James P. Neelankavil, Ph.D.

Faculty Editor

Robert E. Brockway Professor of Marketing and International Business
