Preface

This is the first issue of Volume XIII of the Journal of International Business and Law (JIBL), a joint publication by the students of the Law School and the Zarb School of Business of Hofstra University. The publication of multiple issues each year as well as the planned peer-reviewed section will not change the focus of JIBL, which will remain an interdisciplinary journal focused on international business and law. Also, as always, the journal will publish articles by students, faculty, and practitioners.

The first issue of the XIIIth volume contains a total of 2 articles and 2 notes. The first article, Transnational Legal Services in Globalized Economies, is a lengthy discourse on American leadership in opening the U.S. legal services market to foreign-educated lawyers. It is the equivalent of three to four regular articles, but, because of its scholarship and timeliness publishing it necessitated the exclusion of other articles. The second article and student notes deal with the Language & Cultural Challenges Facing Business and Legal Studies Faculty; Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States and Judicial Review; and Multinational Corporations and Socially Responsible Behavior.

Please submit your manuscript to:

Manuscripts sent to the Journal of International Business and Law should:

- Be original
- Not have already been published or accepted for publication elsewhere.

We hope you find the second issue of Volume XII of JIBL to be useful. We encourage and seek your active participation and patronage in this endeavor.

EDITOR'S PREFACE

This is the first issue of Volume XIII of the Journal of International Business & Law. This is the fourth year in which JIBL has published a two volume issue and the third year in which JIBL has published a book review. This year JIBL is dedicated to elevating our status as a Journal in the scholarly community and providing our readers with the high caliber of production they have come to expect.

Volume 13.1 begins with our featured article from Jeffrey A. Van Detta on Transnational Legal Services in Globalized Economies. Next, we continue this issue's theme of a globalized legal education with Glen M. Vogel's exploration of the challenges international students pose to business and legal studies professors. These articles give two unique looks at the legal education as we expand into an increasingly globalized world.

This issue's book review explores the life of Hank Greenberg and his journey with one of the world's largest public companies, American International Group (AIG). Matthew J. Berger, one of the Journal's J.D./M.B.A. candidates, takes readers on the exciting rollercoaster ride that was the rise and fall of insurance giant AIG.

Finally, our student-written works address the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States and socially responsible behavior by multinational corporations after Kiobel.

We hope you enjoy the first issue of Volume XIII of the Journal of International Business & Law. We invite you to visit our website, at <http://law.hofstra.edu/jibl>, where you can view previous issues of the Journal, learn about its publication procedures and editing philosophy, and subscribe or submit articles. I would like to thank Dr. James P. Neelankavil, the founder of the Journal, for his continuing insight and direction, and our faculty advisor, Professor Julian Ku. Additionally, I would like to thank JIBL's Managing Editor of Production, Alissa Piccione and JIBL's Managing Editor of Staff Jennifer Walnick, for their invaluable help with production.
