Imagine printing a Law Review without electricity.

When Darby Printing Company was founded in 1872, electricity was not widely available and books were slowly printed on hand-cranked presses under inadequate lighting.

Now, we take electricity for granted, high-speed presses seem to run themselves and Darby Printing Company has grown to be one of the leading printers of Law Reviews in the country.

To earn that distinction, we made a serious commitment to provide the type of services Law Review Staffs need and appreciate during the publishing process. Disk conversion, same-day service, desk-top publishing, 24-hour telecommunications, mail list upkeep and subscription fulfillment are just a few of the beneficial services we offer.

To obtain more information about how our long term commitment to service can make publishing your Law Review easier, call today.

If you can't call today, call tomorrow.

We'll still be here.
