CONTRIBUTORS

Burton C. Agata. Burton C. Agata is currently a Professor at Hofstra University’s School of Law, where he also serves as Director of the Advanced Practice Institute. He is a member of the American Law Institute, and is of counsel to the law firm of Reisch, Klar & Lane. Before coming to Hofstra, Professor Agata taught at several other law schools, and served two years as senior counsel for the National Commission on Reform of Federal Criminal Laws where he was involved in the drafting of a new federal criminal code. Professor Agata’s broad experience includes service as Chairman of the Committee on Research of the American Bar Association Section on Criminal Law; chairman of the Criminal Law Section of the Association of American Law Schools; director of the A.B.A.’s comparative study of Criminal Justice Standards for New York; director and consultant for the Federal Judicial Center study on Admissions and Discipline of Attorneys in Federal Courts; consultant on the implementation of criminal justice standards to the Institute of Judicial Administration; and consultant to the United States State Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the White House Special Action Office on Drug Abuse Prevention. He received an LL.M. from New York University in 1951 after receiving a B.A. in 1947 and a J.D. (with distinction) in 1950 from the University of Michigan.

Samuel J. M. Donnelly. Samuel J. M. Donnelly received his A.B. degree from Fordham University, his LL.B. from Harvard, and his LL.M. from New York University. After serving as Law Secretary to the Honorable Nathan L. Jacobs, Associate Justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, he was appointed as a Teaching Fellow at Harvard. Mr. Donnelly is a Professor of Law at York University, and his J.D. degree from N.Y.U. Law School.

Robert J. Egan. Robert J. Egan received his B.S. degree from Georgetown University, and his M.A. and LL.B. degrees from Yale University. He was appointed to the first advisory committee to New York City’s Department of Consumer Affairs in 1969, and has served as Deputy Commissioner for Legal Affairs of that department since 1974. From 1965 to 1968, while in private practice in New York City, he was a consultant to the federal Office of Economic Opportunity, and from 1968 to 1974, was general counsel to the New York Urban Coalition. Mr. Egan is a member of the Board of Directors of Manhattan Legal Services Corp.
David J. Ellis. David J. Ellis is currently the executive director of the fund for Modern Courts, Inc. He received his B.A. in 1964 from Cornell University, a C.E.P. from the University of Paris in 1965, and a J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1969. Upon graduation, he became associated with the New York City firm of Shearman and Sterling, where he practiced until September, 1973. Mr. Ellis is a former adjunct instructor of business law at Fordham University, and has done volunteer work with community law offices in Harlem.

S. William Green. S. William Green received his B.A. degree from Harvard University in 1950 and his LL.B. degree from Harvard Law School in 1953. After serving as law secretary to the late Judge George T. Washington of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he entered private practice as an attorney in New York City. He served as Chief Counsel for New York's Joint Legislative Committee on Housing and Urban Development from 1961 to 1964, and was elected to the New York State Assembly for three terms from 1964 to 1970. As a member of the Assembly, he was the Vice-Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing and Urban Development, and served on the City of New York, Health, and Housing Committees as well. Presently Administrator of the New York Regional Office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, a position he has held since 1970, he is also Chairman of the Federal Regional Council, Region 11, and is an ex officio Commissioner of the Tri-State Regional Planning Commission.

James D. Hopkins. James D. Hopkins received his A.B. from Columbia College and his LL.B. from Columbia Law School. After practicing law, he was elected County Executive of New York's Westchester County. Thereafter, he was elected County Judge of Westchester, and then, Justice of the Supreme Court. He has served by designation of the Governor as an Associate Justice of the Appellate Division, Second Department since 1962. Justice Hopkins was elected Chairman of the Judicial Section of the New York Bar Association in 1969, and is Chairman-Elect of the Executive Committee of the Appellate Judges Conference of the American Bar Association. He is also director of the National College of the State Judiciary, and is Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Appellate Administration of the American Bar Foundation Project.

Dennis A. Kendig. Dennis A. Kendig received his J.D. from Yale Law School in 1973, and his B.A. from De Pauw University in 1969. After two years with the New York firm of Kaye, Scholer, Fierman, Hays, & Handler, he is now associated with the Los Angeles firm of Agnew, Miller and Carlson.
Josephine Y. King. Josephine Y. King is a professor of law at Hofstra University. She received a B.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, an M.A. and Ph.D. from Bryn Mawr College, and a J.D. (cum laude) from the State University of New York at Buffalo School of Law, where she was the first woman to serve as editor-in-chief of the Buffalo Law Review. Dr. King is the author of numerous law review articles in the fields of civil procedure, judicial administration, medical malpractice, no-fault accident reparations, torts and conflict of laws. She has served as consultant to the state legislature in drafting the No-Fault Automobile Compensation Law and has completed a study, under commission of the Judicial Conference of the State of New York, on accelerating personal injury litigation. Professor King is a member of the American Law Institute and Director of the program in Judicial Administration at Hofstra.

Jacob Mishler. Jacob Mishler received his B.S. degree from New York University, and his J.D. degree from N.Y.U. Law School. After practicing law for twenty-five years, he was elevated to the bench as a Justice of the New York State Supreme Court. Appointed as a United States District Judge in the Eastern District of New York in 1960, he has been the Chief Judge of that District for the last five years.

Eleanor Holmes Norton. Eleanor Holmes Norton graduated from Antioch College in 1960, received her M.A. in American Studies from Yale University in 1963, and her LL.B. from Yale Law School in 1964. After serving as law clerk to Judge Leon Higgenbotham of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, she was a constitutional lawyer in practice on the staff of the American Civil Liberties Union. Currently Chairperson of the New York City Commission on Human Rights, she was originally appointed by Mayor John Lindsay in 1970, and was reappointed by Mayor Abraham Beame in 1974.

Alice L. O’Donnell. Alice L. O’Donnell attended the University of Southern California and the University of Washington before receiving her LL.B. degree from George Washington University. She served on the staff of the Attorney General of the United States and on the staff of Mr. Justice Tom C. Clark. Ms. O’Donnell is a Division Delegate to the A.B.A.’s House of Delegates, and was formerly a Chairperson of the American Bar Association’s Division of Judicial Administration. She is presently Director of the Federal Judicial Center’s Division of Inter-Judicial Affairs.
