FOREWORD

This edition of the Hofstra Labor Law Journal contains adaptations of several speeches delivered at the Sixth Annual Edward F. Carlough Labor Law Conference entitled, "Deregulation and Labour Law: The British and American Experiences." The Conference was held at Queens' College, University of Cambridge, Cambridge, England in July 1988 and was sponsored by the Hofstra University School of Law and Queens' College.

At this conference, the British participants explored the impact of deregulation on Collective Bargaining and Individual Rights in Great Britain. The American participants addressed the United States' Experience with deregulation from the perspective of a corporate officer, a union official, a private attorney, and an arbitrator. The American speakers included Edward J. Carlough, General President of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association; Eric J. Schmertz, Dean and Edward F. Carlough Distinguished Professor of Labor Law at the Hofstra University School of Law; Samuel M. Kaynard, Professor of Law at the Hofstra University School of Law and Former Regional Director of the National Labor Relations Board; Michael Katz, Assistant General Counsel of Trans World Airlines, Inc.; Dr. James M. Shuart, President of Hofstra University; and Charles G. Moedler, senior Partner at Strook & Strook & Lavan.

The British speakers included Dr. Brian Napier, Lecturer in Law at the University of Cambridge; Roy Lewis, Professor of Law at the University of Southampton; Stephen Evans, Researcher at Industrial Relations Research Unit at the University of Warwick; Lord Wedderburn, Professor of Commercial Law, London School of Economics and Political Science, University of London; and Bob Hepple, Professor of English Law at University College, London.
