Shepard’s newly published AGE DISCRIMINATION is the first and only treatise for attorneys who must deal with age discrimination claims and in the prevention of such claims by ensuring compliance with legislation.

Given the growing number of older persons and the increase in legislation, the practicing attorney must have a knowledge of the various forms of age discrimination and the tools available to deal with them. AGE DISCRIMINATION covers all forms: employment, the holding of public office, sitting on juries, participating in federally funded programs, and in the extension of credit.

But AGE DISCRIMINATION is not restricted to older individuals. It explores discrimination directed at younger persons. Plus, an analysis of discrimination claims in the political process covers both the claims of those deemed too young to seek public office as well as those deemed too old.

AGE DISCRIMINATION is comprehensive. It provides all the analysis and explanation necessary to handle and ultimately assist in resolving issues that arise:

- Constitutional analysis of age discrimination claims, especially employment discrimination, age discrimination in the voting process, and exclusion on the basis of age from juries and public offices.
- Thorough guidance as to the Federal Age Discrimination Act. The author not only discusses the legislative history of the Act, he presents a thorough, well-documented explanation of its statutory and regulatory requirements.
- Comprehensive coverage of the Federal Equal Credit Opportunity Act prohibiting discrimination in credit transactions. The author provides a thorough explanation of the act and its requirements and indicates how a violation of the act can be established, where the burdens of proof lie and what the applicable defenses are. Further discussed are the practical aspects of agency and judicial enforcement.

AGE DISCRIMINATION is unique in its two-volume coverage — and in-depth analysis — of age discrimination law. We invite you to examine this outstanding guide for 30 days at our risk.
