LL.M. PROGRAM

HOUSTRA UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW

MASTER OF LAWS
with concentrations in

- AMERICAN LEGAL STUDIES
  FOR FOREIGN LAW GRADUATES

In the concentration in American Legal Studies, an LL.M. student will have available to him or her the full curriculum open to Hofstra’s J.D. students. This includes the theoretical courses such as constitutional theory and jurisprudence and practical course offerings in criminal, civil, corporate, and commercial law. In addition, Hofstra Law School presents foreign law graduates with a unique opportunity to explore in depth the American litigation system. Hofstra offers courses taught by expert faculty in every phase of American litigation from interviewing and counseling, to trial and appellate advocacy, to international civil litigation in U.S. courts. Interested LL.M. students may also pursue practical litigation experience through our live client clinics and externship program.

- INTERNATIONAL LAW
  FOR U.S. AND FOREIGN LAW GRADUATES

In the concentration in International Law, LL.M. students may select from a very wide and substantial range of international law courses taught by a talented and intellectually diverse international law faculty. LL.M. students in international law will also have the opportunity to produce a publishable thesis under the personal supervision of a member of the international law faculty.

INTERNATIONAL LAW

FOR FOREIGN LAW GRADUATES

To provide the knowledge and skills for international LLM and JD students, the University offers a program designed to prepare students for careers in international law. The program emphasizes international law and provides a strong foundation in U.S. law. Students have the opportunity to work with U.S. and foreign attorneys, and to participate in international legal conferences. The program also offers opportunities for students to travel abroad and gain practical experience in international law.
